

I feel the elimination of the morse code requirement from the amateur radio license would be a mistake. It would diminish the ability of radio operators to respond in extremely dire emergencies. CW can get a message through on the most basic equipment but it needs someone on both ends who knows code.